Event Catalyst Profile

Agent Félicien Sansregret

Agent Sansregret transferred to B.E.E.F. from the Bureau des Occurences Extranormales Universelles Fractalaires in Montreal. B.O.E.U.F. discovered Sansregret's remains upon arrival to the scene of a Level 3 Extranormal Encounter, Sansregret himself having been ritually sacrificed before agents arrived. His remains requested assistance from B.O.E.U.F. agents. Three weeks later, he was sent to B.E.E.F. in the hopes that more advanced testing sites would provide more information. Event Specialists quickly confirmed Sansregret as a Catalyst.

Further tests confirmed that Sansregret is an Extranormal Being of the undead variety (see File R6G2E4 for a complete list of tests performed and data collected). He does not need to eat, sleep, or breathe, and various parts of his body are linked and likely animated by energy signatures similar to those of the Level 3 Extranormal Encounter he was sacrificed in. Whether and how Sansregret is still a part of that ritual is a matter for further study, but the ritual may be related to his status as an Event Catalyst. Sansregret keeps several body parts in a guitar case on his person at all times; it appears that separation from his body parts causes the closest thing to pain he can currently experience. In case of confrontation, agents are advised to separate as many body parts as possible and verify the location of each one.

Prior to his post-mortem recruitment, Sansregret was a guitarist, folk singer, and university student; he has since filed for a leave of absence and now only plays music privately (mostly in B.E.E.F.). Living relatives include at least one household in Montreal, with whom he maintains phone contact but avoids in person. Psychological testing found that he is discomforted by his physical appearance and by the prospect of non-Bureau individuals seeing him. He also stated several times that he is "looking forward" to the Bureau finding a way to "fix" his "condition" during testing. Event Specialists are looking into the possibility that a full resurrection is necessary for the Event to occur. Testing also discovered an intense dislike for popular music. Or requests to play popular music. Agents are not advised to attempt to weaponize popular music; refer to File R6G2E4.

Further research into the specifics of Sansregret's Extranormal existence is ongoing. Due to the potential for his talents to be used in the field, as well as the current investigation into his role in the Event, Sansregret has been approved to join Field Team Delta 7, assignment: Reddington. He has requested his guitar as a personal item. Specialists believe the guitar is not instrumental to the Event.

Threat Level Classification: Rampant. Sansregret is entirely unkillable and the extent of his link to the entity he was sacrificed to is unknown. However, experimentation from the Bureau has provided several incapacitation methods. Approach with caution, confront if necessary.
